SAFETY INFORMATION

ANIMALS:

Part of the beauty of the home is that it is located next to very pristine and lush tropical forests. This being said with the beauty comes the potential of seeing animals some wanted and other not so much. We advise you to not come in contact with animals as they are “wild” and can be potentially dangerous for you. Some of the animals are very beautiful and a true joy to observe but please do not touch them especially any snakes, frogs, or insects (scorpions, spiders, caterpillars etc.) as some may have poison oils that can be secreted through their skin or spikes.

- Do Not Touch the Wildlife: If you do come into contact with a venomous animal please wash your hands with soap and water and do not touch your eyes or face in general. If you were to ingest something poisonous drink milk to alkaline, which will decrease the poison, then head immediately to the Hospital.

WEATHER

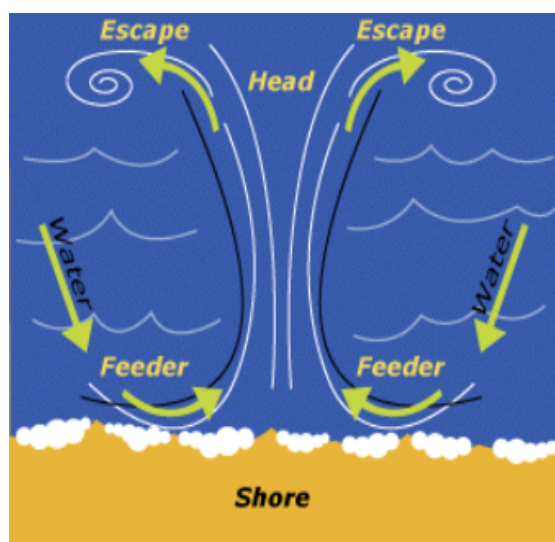

Costa Rica is known for its incredible rainstorms. It is one of the beautiful qualities of this country and why it is so green and lush from the mountains to the beaches. However, it can quickly go from fun light showers to torrential downpour with lightning and wind.

- Do Not drive durring a storm: If you find yourself driving during this time, not only can it become difficult to see with all the humidity, storms particularly with wind can cause trees to fall on the road which become even more treacherous if you don't have good visibility.
 - Find a safe place to pull over if the conditions make it difficult or dangerous to drive and to wait till the storm quiets down,
 - Watch for fallen Power lines.
 - Do not swim in the Pool if here is lightning.
 - The homes and cars are all safe places to be during such a storm.
 - Power Outage: If the power goes out in the home, it could be just our home but most likely it is the entire community or region. Power outages can happen if the power company is working on something (in which case it would be during the day), or if a storm knock down some power-lines. In either case, if the power goes out just give us a call and we will let you know what is going on and hopefully give you an estimate as to how long it will be till it is back on.
 - Use Candles & Lamps: For night time power outages, we do have candles and battery operated lanterns located on the bottom floor of the home. Light some candles and use the lantern to get around the house.

SAFETY INFORMATION

OCEAN & RIP CURRENTS:

- Our local beaches within 5-20 min of the home are all renowned spots for surfing in Costa Rica with miles and miles of beach break and several reefs. From the heavy beach break of the renown popular Playa Hermosa, to the mellow longboard waves of Esterillos Oeste and the miles of uncrowded beach breaks and river-mouths to the south.
- Please take caution any time you are at the beach and when deciding whether to swim or not please review ALL signs & placards about wave safety and ocean conditions.
- Riptides or rip currents are responsible for about 80% of ocean drowning's, so a basic knowledge of how ocean currents behave is your best defense against the perils of the ocean.
- You can spot rip currents by looking for some usual indicators.
 - A brownish color on the surface of the water
 - A flattening effect is common as the water of the rip current finds the depression in the ocean floor and rushes back out to sea. This gives the appearance of a deceptively smooth surface.
- If in the case you are caught in the rip current:
 - DO NOT PANIC just relax and swim parallel to the shore.
 - DO NOT try to swim in to shore as you will be fighting against the current and will get exhausted trying.
 - Call For Help.
